This One Got Away

Scott Miller of Talbot Road watches as his fish gets away -- on purpose. Scott, one of dozens of youngsters who have lined town watering holes since the Massachusetts Fishing Season officially opened Saturday, caught a small catfish, but seemed to get just as much pleasure from setting it free.

Selectmen Eye $54 Rate

The Board of Selectmen and the Finance Committee, frequently at odds on the eve of Town Meeting, this year are in agreement on at least one point -- both are predicting a $54 tax rate.

Both will achieve that rate if their recommendations are followed by voters at Town Meeting next week, but their recommendations differ and therefore leave the true tax rate in question.

The $54 rate would represent an increase of $3 over this year, but is the same as three years ago. Decreases have been possible for the past two years.

The Selectmen determined their $54 rate Tuesday morning after yet another budget review. Major action at that meeting was the cut back of free cash to be applied to the income side of next year's budget from $1.6 million to $1,375,000.

According to Assistant Town Manager Sheldon Cohen, that decision adds about $1 to the tax rate this year, but gives a cushion of the same amount next year when it will be needed more.

Already, he said, the selectmen are anticipating a tax rate a year from now in the area of $64. He said they are estimating that federal revenue sharing will be down about $100,000, and state highway aid down about $280,000. At the same time, he said they estimate that the county tax will increase about $300,000, and they figure a 10 percent increase annually in the cost of utilities.

After the free cash outlay was cut Tuesday, he said, the selectmen were left with an estimated tax rate of $53.96. Of that amount, $23.83 is the town's share and $30.13, the school's.

The FinCom's budget and special article recommendations are printed in their Town Meeting guide, and the major differences with the selectmen are in the area of capital outlay.

For instance, the selectmen are recommending $970,550, while the Finance Committee has gone along with $2,657,000 for water system improvements.

In a memo that explains their differences, the selectmen said they believe the construction of a new Prospect Hill reservoir must proceed immediately, but that other improvements to the water distribution system need future review.

They also reduced the request for Open Space - Recreation acquisition from $930,000 to $515,000, while FinCom approved the full request that includes Sacred Heart land.

The Selectmen voted last week to come back to Town Meeting in April, 1977, with a comprehensive neighborhood development program for the Shawsheen Village area, and opposed expenditure of any funds for any of the Sacred Heart properties at this time.

Tuesday night they voted to insert a $15,000 item in the Town Manager's portion of the budget to pursue a development plan.

The Selectmen said they also believed that Recreation Park proposals needed further review and voted not to support funds for improvements or

Our Ancestral Heritage

Town Meeting Opens Monday

Andover's 1976 Bicentennial Celebration will get off to an official start Monday with a true heritage from the town's ancestors -- Town Meeting.

Some members of various town boards, as well as voters, will be dressed in colonial garb when they turn up for the first session Monday night at 7:30 p.m. in the East Jr. High School Auditorium.

Moderator William Dalton will also wield the gavel at the second session Tuesday night, and nightly thereafter until all 56 items of business have been acted upon.

In past years, Town Meeting has been continued on consecutive Mondays instead of days of the week.

Andover residents of 200 years ago would likely have been overwhelmed at today's 350-member quorum for Town Meeting, much less the first item of business -- a $19.6 million budget that, together with special articles, is expected to put the tax rate at somewhere around $54.

A special town meeting within Town Meeting will be held at 9 o'clock Tuesday night, to make supplemental appropriations for this year's budget, and to transfer control of some bridges in town to the state. The budget fell short on snow removal, due to extra-heavy accumulations, and on water pumping expenses.

Town Meeting Programs

The "program" for Town Meeting is the Finance Committee Report, a red-covered booklet which has been mailed to each household in town. The FinCom has urged voters to bring the report with them to Town Meeting, beginning Monday night, as extra copies will not be available there.

Special articles in the regular warrant, with major price tags, include the Open Space and Sacred Heart requests.

Emmert Appointed To A.F. Academy

William Emmert, son of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Emmert, 392 North Main Street, Andover, has received an appointment to the U.S. Air Force Academy.

Emmert will report to the academy at Colorado Springs on June 28, soon after graduation from Andover High. He applied for his appointment through Congressman Paul Tsongas.

Emmert, 17, is a member of the National Honor Society, and a three-sport letterman. He was tri-captain of the Andover High soccer team this year, and was named to both the Northern League and Merrimack Valley Allstar teams. He was sixth man on Andover's Merrimack Valley League championship team, and is currently a relief pitcher for the baseball team.

He gets up at 5:30 every morning to deliver the Herald American and the Sunday Herald Advertiser by bicycle and, according to his father, is "busy every minute" until he goes to bed around 10.

Born in Japan, Emmert has lived in Andover since he was a year old, except for two years in Yokohama when his father was on Raytheon assignment there.

According to his father, he wants to learn to fly.

Daniel Griffin

Receives Railroad's Award

Daniel Griffin, a senior at North Andover High School and a prospective journalist, has received a $1,000-per-year scholarship award from the Burlington Northern Railroad.

Griffin was one of 15 youngsters of BN employees who were chosen to receive the four-year awards, from a field of 324 applicants. The awards go only to seniors who are in the top one-third of their classes.

A member of the National Honor Society, Griffin is currently editor-in-chief of "The Squire", and is an editor on the school's yearbook, "The Knight".

Last summer he attended the Syracuse University School Press Institute and graduated with honors. He has also had articles published in the Lawrence Eagle-Tribune and the North Andover Citizen.

Griffin has been active in the Drama Club, French club, and as a pianist for the Stage Band. He is the Massachusetts State alternate for the Shell Oil Company - National Association of Secondary School Principals Bicentennial Seniors Scholarship Program.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel J. Griffin, 62 Milton St., North Andover. His father is Boston area sales representative for Burlington Northern.

Attends Program

David Landy, Fairfax Drive, Andover, a senior at Andover High School, recently participated in the second 1976 Dean For A Day Program sponsored by Dean Junior College in Franklin.

The student(s) spent two days as a guest on the 165-acre Dean campus meeting with members of the faculty and student body, visiting classes, and attending college activities.

Dean For A Day provides interested students with an opportunity to learn more about Dean's programs which include majors in over 28 different areas. All curriculums are convertible; a student may transfer to a four-year institution or enter a career occupation.

Mrs. Ahern Heads Local Fund Drive

Mrs. Marilyn Ahern has been appointed chairman of the 1976 Community Campaign of the Kidney Foundation in Andover, according to an announcement by Charles E. Westcott, president of the Kidney Foundation of Massachusetts.

Mrs. Ahern will head the appeal to raise funds to support programs of the Kidney Foundation in the prevention, treatment and cure of kidney diseases.

Residing with her husband, Arthur G., and their five children at 33 Wild Rose Drive, Mrs. Ahern has been a resident of Andover for ten years. She is a member of the Shawsheen Village Woman's Club.

The Kidney Foundation will be raising funds to expand research and service programs from business and industry, civic, professional and community organizations, and individuals through a residential solicitation on Sunday, May 16.

In addition to coordinating all facets of the campaign, Mrs. Ahern will be responsible for recruiting volunteers to assist the organization in the fund drive. She urges residents of Andover to telephone her at the Kidney Foundation in Boston and offer their time and services to the cause.

The Kidney Foundation of Massachusetts, an affiliate of the National Kidney Foundation, is the only voluntary health agency seeking the total answer to diseases of the kidney.

On Dean's List

Margaret Louise Pike of Andover has been named to the dean's list for the winter quarter at Transylvania University in Lexington, Kentucky.

Ms. Pike, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. J. Edison Pike, is a senior majoring in art.

Skug River Wetlands Area Of Open Space Article

A 168-acre parcel along both sides of the unspoiled Skug River, except where there are existing house lots, is one of the items in Article 47, which will be presented by the Conservation Commission, Planning Board and Recreation - Community Schools Department at the Town Meeting. The area, shaded in the map above, links state and town-owned lands and is historic as well as scenic. On a branch of the Skug River is an almost forgotten mill site where logs were sawed, and nearby is the old blue soapstone quarry, which supplied stones for buildings on Summer Street in Boston, as well as various Andover walls and cemeteries.

Schoolmen Meet Early

The Andover School Committee will meet at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday night at Stowe School.

The earlier-than-usual hour was set so as not to interfere with Town Meeting at 7:30.

Water Business

Town Manager J. Maynard Austin reported this week that last Saturday, Andover began selling water to North Reading on an "emergency" basis. The Selectmen approved such sales about a year ago.

Sheldon Cohen, Assistant Town Manager, added that while a "fair amount" of water was pumped over the heat wave weekend, Haggett's Pond, the town's prime water supply, was filled to the brim.

Tentative Approval

The Selectmen Tuesday night gave conditional approval to plans for the new Andover Jade Restaurant in Shawsheen Plaza.

Their formal okay hinges on the restaurant's plans being approved by the building inspector and the health department.

"Sludge" Funds May Be Available

The Selectmen Tuesday night gave their go-ahead to seek state and federal funds for sewer projects after Town Manager J. Maynard Austin reported that substantial federal funds may now be available. Austin will move ahead with applications for the Riverina Pumping Station and the Merrimack Outfall, for which plans have been completed.

More details were expected after Department of Public Works Director Robert McQuade returned from a meeting in Boston yesterday.

New Organization Is Being Formed

An organizational meeting for the laryngectomies of Merrimack Valley will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday, May 2, at the Bon Secours Hospital, Methuen.

All laryngectomies, spouses, friends, and others interested, are invited. Refreshments will be served.

Charles Aaronian, area coordinator, will preside at the meeting, and urges persons who can contribute to, or benefit

Town Meeting Reminder

The Andover League of Women Voters is sponsoring a poster contest on the Town Meeting theme for youngsters, and will be putting up signs and distributing flyers to elementary school youngsters Monday. Town Meeting begins Monday night at 7:30 p.m. in the East Jr. High Auditorium. Here, Mrs. Alix Driscoll, left, and League President Sue Tucker put up sign at Elm Square information booth.

League Supports Eight Articles

The Andover League of Women Voters will support eight articles on the Town Meeting Warrant. According to Sue Tucker, League president, the decisions to support or oppose articles are made by the League only in those areas that have been previously studied and approved by the members. In addition, three discussion units are held on the warrant prior to each Town Meeting.

The League will support:

Article 36 - The League supports the development of bikeways in Andover for the purposes of recreation and conservation of energy. Members feel that safety signs and centrally located bike racks are the priority items within this article.

Article 37 - The League recognizes the need for community financial support for mental health services available to the public in our area; we therefore support this article in the minimum amount of $15,000.

Articles 38 and 39 - The League supports these articles under their positions in favor of long-range conservation planning.

Article 47 - Acquisition of the Sacred Heart land is a high priority for League members. We feel that it is very important to preserve some open space and recreational facilities in this densely populated area of town.

Articles 50 and 51 - The League supports these articles under its position favoring the development of public recreational facilities. However, members question, on a priority basis, the need for tennis courts at the present time.

Other features during the week will include the student art opening, 7 to 9 p.m., May 2; student concert, 8 p.m., May 3; Gerald Johnston on the classical guitar, May 4; Oriana Consort playing medieval - renaissance music, May 5; Poet Ricardo Alonso, May 6; and Soprano Kathleen Hallman, May 7.

The church is located at 244 Lowell Street.

GROW A GARDEN ON US.

At Mass. Electric we've noticed a lot of enthusiasm lately among people who've been growing their own food. It occurred to us that some of our customers might want to grow their own garden this year and don't have the land to do it.

Well, we do. And if you need some land, we're making available plots of open land near our facilities—up to 1000 sq. ft. per plot depending upon location. The land is available as long as it lasts, to the first people who apply.

Most of these plots are located near water supplies. We will plow and test the soil for you. We can also help you with information on planting and growing. Then you're on your own to till, seed, feed, weed and hoe. And of course, whatever you produce is all yours to enjoy. Just call your Massachusetts Electric Office to learn about the land available near you. Or use the coupon below. If you wish, you may get together with neighbors or friends. You'll be surprised at how much fun you can have, gardening on us!

Friday Feature Films Continue . . .

Tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. the film will be David And Lisa (1962). This film, directed by Frank Perry and based on a book by Dr. Theodore Isaac Rubin, is the story of two disturbed adolescents in a mental home. This is the first feature film by Perry and was given Best Picture by a New Director award at the 1962 Venice Film Festival.

Opera Club

The Library Opera Club will meet Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Bertheim, 226 Hampshire St., Methuen. The opera will be Orpheus by Gluck. Ms. Bertheim will give a critical appraisal of the opera and a recording will be played.

Old Buttons

A fine collection of old buttons is on display during the month of April. On loan from Ms. Barbara Richards of Reading, the collection includes many items which are illustrated in library books on the subject of old buttons.

There is some additional information about individual buttons in the display which is available from Gwen Smith at the library. The library would also like to encourage any other collectors in the area to call the library about exhibiting their hobbies.

Arts and Crafts Festival

Applications are now being taken from people who have crafts they would like to exhibit and demonstrate during the library Arts and Crafts Festival on May 19. If you are interested in participating in this one day festival call the library.

It's Gardening Time

The Gardener's Catalogue modestly calls itself "the most important gardening tool since the watering can." Since its addition to the reference collection, it has answered a variety of gardening questions. People seeking sources for seeds and plants, including wildflower seeds and plants, have found lengthy lists of sources. Detailed plans for building one's own greenhouse, suggestions for treating Dutch Elm disease, and a list of botanical gardens to visit are samples of other features in the book. Spring is coming to your yard and we invite you to call or come in to the Reference Desk with more gardening questions for our new "gardening tool". And while you're in the library, don't forget to ask about our gardening catalogs -- we have both current seed catalogs and gardening supply catalogs.

Children's Room News

By Ruth Hooten

Many people have asked that the Children's Room have available a list announcing the new books (on the idea of the list put out by the Adult Room). Starting the end of April, a list will be available of all the new books, records, puzzles, and cassettes added to the collection during the month. We hope that this list will be helpful to parents and children alike.

The VIBOR Newsletter is now available. Besides book suggestions it will feature a crossword puzzle and a word game. As a regular feature, I would like to include a VIBOR review in this column. Here is a review by Cathy Merrill on Tuck Everlasting by Natalie Babbitt:

This is a wonderful book by Natalie Babbitt (who also wrote Knee Knock Rise) about magic water that makes you live forever! Please read how Winnie learns about the water, but the way she learns about it is that she is kidnapped. Nothing but courage can get her out of the problem. VIBOR approved.

What Our Readers Say-

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN

Thank you, Linda Corbett! Mrs. Corbett's March 25 article on Andover ABC (A Better Chance) as well as photos by Andover High School senior, Mark Deacon, received a unanimous vote of appreciation and admiration at our April 13 meeting of the Board of Directors.

We are a local, privately funded, volunteer organization and like all such organizations, have a public awareness problem. The TOWNSMAN has been our biggest ally in keeping Andover abreast of our activities and in introducing our young people to the town. Mrs. Corbett's article accurately conveyed the spirit and dedication of both the students and adults involved in the program.

Essentially all the positions in ABC are unpaid, including the full-time "in loco parentis" positions of our resident directors. We were particularly pleased to see Lucille and Carl Bovay in the Male House and Carolyn and Dan Moynihan in the Women's House receiving public acknowledgement.

Thank you again from the ABC roads, while FinCom approved $64,000 for those purposes.

Cohen explained that the Selectmen are planning a major, six-year comprehensive capital budget. They are therefore not recommending some major expenditures until the study is completed and they see how all of the town's needs fit together over the next several years.

There's a real necessity, Cohen said, to put the capital planning together.

The Selectmen also added $1,000 to FinCom's $44,660 for municipal building expenses, saying that sufficient funds should be provided for operating supplies and vacuum cleaning equipment for the Theatre Building, acquired by a Town Meeting vote last October.

They recommended $10,100, compared to FinCom's $9,000 for parttime help for the Council on Aging, and $249,526 to FinCom's $239,526 for "adequate funding of overtime for snow removal."

DON'T RELY JUST ON SOCIAL SECURITY.

Social Security is fine. But in a world of spiraling inflation, it may not provide for all your retirement needs.

So today it's more important than ever to prepare financially for retirement.

If you don't have a pension fund where you work, you can put up to 15% of your annual salary - up to $1,500 - into an individual retirement account this year and every year. These contributions are fully tax deductible until after you retire - when you'll probably be in a lower tax bracket.

If you're self-employed ask about a tax-sheltered Keogh plan which lets you save up to $7,500 per year. Stop by any of our 10 offices and get the details.

Grandparents See How It's Done Today

All The Way From Edinburg

Some 80 grandparents and senior citizens from the Andover Haven got a first-hand view of what school's all about these days, at a special Grandparents Day at Bancroft School April 14.

The grandparents were welcomed to the school by Principal Jack Coyle, and then observed the pupils in their normal school environment, with the media resources, laminated sheets, science materials and instructional games and materials currently in use in Andover's classrooms. They were treated to refreshments prepared by their grandchildren. The senior citizens spent their day with 4th, 5th and 6th graders whose grandparents could not attend. Many stayed on for lunch in the cafeteria with the children, and 1st grade grandparents had a picnic on the school playground with the entire lot of pupils, teachers and aides.

Coyle said the grandparents commented favorably on the architecture of the building, the rapport between students and teachers, and the independence of pupils in getting their own materials and getting to work.

Although grandparents came from other parts of New England, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, and Washington, D.C., the PTO's prize for the farthest distance traveled went to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harkness of Edinburg, Scotland, grandparents of 2nd grader Garth McMurray.

Harkness said he was impressed with how well the youngsters use the audio visual equipment. Where he teaches, he said, only the teacher ever uses any of this equipment.

The etchings of Joan Braggen are on exhibit at Bentley College through tomorrow.

Braggen describes her work as objective and "pure design."

"I am interested in developing time and space relationships using the language of non-objective forms within traditional media of etching. All my current work leads me in the same direction toward exploring the limitations of a traditional dimensional medium."

"What I try to depict is a moment in time which has before the boundaries of paper and continues on after."

Braggen was born in Swampscott and graduated from Smith College. Her early teachers were Leonard I. Mervin Jules and George In Philadelphia she studied etching with Samuel M. Zelt and intaglio technique with Martha Adams Zelt. From 1967 to 1974 she lived in Europe where she worked for S.W. Hayter in etching and did independent teaching and lecturing in the Netherlands.

Braggen has exhibited work in the Print Club in Philadelphia and at annual international juried exhibitions.

Bragen describes her work as objective and "pure design".

"I am interested in developing time and space relationships using the language of non-objective forms within traditional methods of etching. All my current work leads me in the same direction -- toward exploring multi-dimensional space within the limitations of a traditionally two-dimensional medium."

"What I try to depict is a moment in time which has begun before the boundaries of the paper and continues on after it."

Bragen was born in Swampscott and graduated from Smith College. Her early art teachers were Leonard Baskin, Mervin Jules and George Cohen. In Philadelphia she studied etching with Samuel M. Laitin and etching and intaglio techniques with Martha Adams Zelt at the Print Club of Philadelphia.

From 1967 to 1974 she lived in Europe where she worked with S.W. Hayter in etching in Paris, and did independent work, teaching and lecturing in the Netherlands.

Bragen has exhibited with the Print Club in Philadelphia, an annual international juried show;

Discipline Is Number One School Problem

Discipline is the "most important" problem in Andover schools, Superintendent Kenneth R. Seifert said last week in his prepared State of the Schools message.

There are some students who should not be in public schools,

For Those Of 'Its Who Are Older

Passes for seats at Andover's forthcoming Bicentennial Parade May 9 are available at The Haven for senior citizens. Locations of seats include East Jr. High School and the vicinity of the town parking lot on Main Street. They are available now, so stop by The Haven and get yours. Choice of location must be specified when the passes are issued.

Two new classes are starting at The Haven, Thursday, April 29. Sponsored by the Recreation - Community Schools Department, in the morning from 9:30 to 11, Marilyn Stella will teach sculpturing for six weeks. From 2:15 to 3:45 that same day Susan Pratt will begin a four week course in acrylic cloth painting. Both courses are free, but you must register in advance at The Haven. Classes are limited to 15 persons. Why not explore these exciting new opportunities? Call The Haven about them now. (475-3968 and 475-4165)

Tickets are at The Haven now for the Bicentennial dinner dance May 20. The affair will be held at West Jr. High School and will feature a roast turkey dinner as well as entertainment by The Singing Strings plus music and dancing . . . and all for $3. Costumes are optional, but it should be a fun evening for everyone.

June 6 buses will leave The Haven for a special event at Cathedral in the Pines, Rindge, N.H. that will feature the Andover Male Choir, the Beverly Men's Chorus and Clan MacPherson. On the way to Rindge the group will stop for dinner at the Old Forge Restaurant. Make your reservations now at The Haven.

Artist In Competition

Lee B. Brown, 193 Main Street, Andover, has entered an original painting in the 14th annual Benedictine Art Awards, a national competition inspired by the renowned art collection on permanent exhibit at the Benedictine Abbey Museum in Fecamp, France.

Thirty-five finalists will be chosen by a distinguished jury of experts in the fine arts.

he went on, and said that most of the personal and property damage at the high school is caused by about 50 pupils. It becomes a community problem, however, because of the "spillover" to other students.

Parents should be told, he said, that their youngsters should either be institutionalized or get a job, he said.

Seifert also suggested that pupils also accept more responsibility for their own learning.

He said this would be possible if they have materials they can read, if they are given tasks to perform that will help them grow, and if the staff makes school "a friendly place."

He said those were assumptions he made "not as a superintendent, but as a teacher."

Continuing on the state of the schools, Seifert said he was more convinced than ever of the importance of long range planning. Since, he said, he felt the present school committee is of a more "gregarious nature", he suggested a community council to help.

The school committee, selectmen, finance committee and planning board could decide together, he said, "on where we're going - on the dollars to be spent and the quality of life desired."

"We need a game plan to share with the town," he said.

His long-range plan also included a five-year plan to be developed within the system for buildings and programs.

"For instance," he said, "in five years do we want our foreign language program to be only French and Spanish? How about German or Hebrew?"

Seifert also proposed quarterly meetings with the staff and better communications with the community. He said the directional letter which the committee has sent home to parents for the past two years has been a step in that direction.

His "action plan" calls for final exams in the junior or senior year "to substantiate that real learning is taking place - so that when they walk across the stage and get their diplomas, it says more than that they have 16 hours of credit."

Seifert said he will also establish more accurate readiness tests for reading and math.

We may be diagnosing some problems as learning disabilities in six to nine-year-olds, he said, when the real problem might be maturation.

He said he hoped for a laboratory environment for each instructional program, improved distribution of resources in each program, and assessment of each instructional program.

He also asked for cooperation with senior citizens, and suggested providing assistance for property tax reform. Seniors are against anything that will increase taxes, he said, and they blame the schools.

The schools should also tap the Seniors as a resource, Seifert said, adding that next year they would try to set up a Student Historical Society, bringing some of the senior citizens in to help.

"Part of a student's education should be to assist the elderly," he went on. "Grandparents are becoming unknown quantities."

In the area of home-school relations, he suggested more articulation in sharing communications with parents - what's really going on.

He said parents should be informed how a child compares with himself and with others, and that college-bound pressure should also be discussed. Too much importance is placed on going to college in Andover, he said, and pupils end up in college-bound classes when they shouldn't be there.

Almost Athletes Event Set

The Recreation - Community School Department has unveiled its plans for the latest special event designed for high school students.

The event titled, "Almost Athletes", is scheduled for 11 a.m. Sunday, at the high school. "Almost Athletes" is the epitome of team competition and the ultimate in fun as it is sure to provide a day to remember to all those who participate.

If you've been waiting for the day to demonstrate that you are the fastest when it comes to running backwards while carrying an egg on a spoon, the most accurate at dropping clothespins in a bottle or the most adept at racing on stilts, then your hour of glory is fast approaching.

Six events ranging from a bicycle scavenger race to novelty relay races will test the physical and mental abilities of each team member. Jocks do not have the edge over "A" students, males don't have it over females and seniors will have to prove that they are superior to sophomores.

Each team consists of five players who will each compete in all six events. A point system will be used to determine overall winners for the day.

Registration forms and event descriptions are available in both the High School and the Recreation - Community School offices. Registration deadline for the event is Wednesday, April 21. Trophies will be awarded to the winners - a pat on the back to all who participate.

Hardy Green Is Syracuse All-Star

Hardy Green, a freshman at Syracuse University and a resident of Andover, participated in his school's hockey program this winter. Hardy was on the first line, and led the team and Eastern Division with 21 goals, six assists, for 27 points.

Hardy, one of the team's alternate captains, had four "hat tricks" including a five- and six-goal game. His performances helped the Orangemen to the Finger Lakes Regional Play-offs, where they placed fourth. After the season, Hardy was selected as the league's All-Star right-wing. He is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Morton B. Green.

Hadassah Luncheon Wednesday

"A New Dawn" will begin for the Greater Lawrence Chapter of Hadassah as the organization celebrates its 50th anniversary at the Annual Donor Luncheon Wednesday.

Several hundred women are expected to attend the event, which will be held at noon at Temple Emanuel in Lawrence. Mrs. Sidney Swartz is chairman of the luncheon and Mrs. Saul Silberman is in charge of reservations.

Mrs. Harry Portman, president of the New England Region of Hadassah, will install Mrs. Edward Tober as the new Greater Lawrence Chapter president.

The annual luncheon is the largest single fund-raising event for the 500-member chapter. The funds raised will be used for the Hadassah Medical Organization in Israel.

Opened in 1961, the Hadassah Hebrew University Medical Center in Ein Karem, Jerusalem's latest perimeter, is a building for cancer and allied diseases, housing the Moshe Sharett Institute of Oncology, to be dedicated in June.

Going up, too, are additional facilities for the Neurology Research Laboratories, a nurses' residence, a doctors' residence and a Hadassah Day Care Nursery for children of hospital employees.

The hospital's 700 beds serve an inpatient load of more than 21,000 a year. Nearly a quarter million outpatient visits are also on record yearly at the outpatient clinics.

Hadassah personnel also supervise and operate the only leprosanarium in Jerusalem.

After 19 years of inaccessibility, the Hadassah Medical Center at Mt. Scopus was rebuilt and rededicated last October. The new sector includes a 260-bed general hospital with a rehabilitation pavilion, a new wing for pediatric surgery, research labs and an auditorium.

Already functioning are the School of Occupational Therapy and the Hadassah Youth Center.

More than 700 officially approved research projects also go on continuously. Notable is a cancer detection test, worked out by a medical center scientist, which is currently being projected for refined testing by an American drug firm.

The Greater Lawrence Chapter was organized in 1925, many years before the Medical Center became a reality. At that time, the nucleus of the group was a sewing circle which met at Temple Emanuel in Lawrence to sew for the people of Palestine. Mrs. Minnie Zermosky was the first president of the 51-member group.

Mrs. Morris Klaiman, one of the first presidents, recalls that money was collected by knocking on doors and asking for nickels. In 1948, several thousand dollars were raised by an energetic telephone committee.

A supper dance in 1960 cost $6 per couple to attend. By 1961, the dinner became a "Golden Soiree" in honor of Hadassah's national 50th anniversary. The donor luncheon that year included a musical revue.

In 1967, the chapter received an award from the New England Region for outstanding fund raising with such events as a fashion show attended by 400 women. In 1969, a Yiddish Bunny Club provided the theme for a dinner, which starred Hadassah's own bunny waitresses and in 1973, the first tennis night was held.

Audubon Offers Canoe Lessons

The rivers and ponds of eastern New England offer many opportunities for a day's peaceful recreation to canoeists, but some skills are necessary if the day is not to end with all parties exhausted and wet; Massachusetts Audubon Society's Ipswich River Wildlife Sanctuary on Perkins Row in Topsfield is planning a three-session series of canoe lessons beginning Saturday, May 1, on the Ipswich River. Included will be basic techniques on handling and strokes, instruction on the plants and animals which live along the river banks, and good manners on the water.

The group will be limited to allow for individual attention and prior registration is required. The fee will include cost of canoe and paddles. For more information, please write or call the Sanctuary office, Tuesday through Friday.

Pottid Square in Salisbury, right off the Square, is where the women of Salisbury melted down their pewter pots to make bullets in the cause of liberty.

White House Featured At Institute Luncheon

The Ladies Committee of the Essex Institute will present an illustrated lecture entitled "The White House and its Collections" by Clement E. Conger, curator of the White House on Friday, April 30, at 11 a.m. at the Institute in Salem.

Conger, of Alexandria, Va., is also chairman of the Fine Arts Committee, Department of State. The collections of fine period American furniture in the Diplomatic Reception Rooms of the State Department and the White House are among the most important in the Washington area, and his lecture takes a glimpse at White House areas not often seen.

Special Institute exhibits will coincide with Conger's lecture. Costumes of the 1900-1910 period will be displayed in a garden party setting in the auditorium of the Institute. Memorabilia of past presidents from the Essex Institute collections will be shown as well.

"A.H. Davenport: Furniture Maker to the President" will be the theme of the exhibit which will be presented in the McCarthy Gallery and consist of furniture, drawings, and photographs from the 19th century furniture company which made furniture for McKim, Mead, and White's 1903 restoration of the White House.

Members of the Ladies Committee will serve the traditional basket luncheon after the lecture. Reservations will be limited and should be made by April 27.

Mrs. W. Benjamin Bacon of Beverly and Mrs. Frank McQ. Gring of Marblehead are co-chairmen of this year's spring lecture, assisted by members of the Ladies Committee.

THE ANDOVER CHAMBER OPPOSES ARTICLES 26 & 27 OF THE TOWN WARRANT

The Andover Chamber of Commerce, after a number of weeks of study, has voted through its Board of Directors at a vote of 7-3 to oppose Articles 26 and 27 of the Town Warrant.

Proponents of these articles are placing heavy emphasis on the quality of industry and its ultimate effect on the esthetics of the community.

We also, are concerned but we feel too many constraints will burden the land owners and virtually put Andover out of competition with the great many other communities also seeking to develop stable industrial areas.

Such a financial resource must be viewed with a degree of importance. We feel additional regulations added to an already rather impressive collection might in effect place too much emphasis on the esthetics of our environment at the expense of economic considerations and that the present state of the economy may cause neither to be achieved.

Commander of the Lexington minutemen on April 19, 1775, Parker is represented by his statue on the Green. Close by is the spot where 77 minutemen formed into line to oppose 700 British soldiers marching to Concord to destroy stored arms and powder. Here was shed the first blood of the Revolution when the Redcoats opened fire, killing 8 and wounding 9 colonists. Yesterday's minutemen were the forerunners of today's Massachusetts National Guard — men and women trained and ready to respond quickly to protect life and property.

On Democracy In Modern Times

It seems we note this every year about this time, that New England town meeting is the purest form of Democracy -- and starting Monday, it's your chance to participate.

Also noted, dutifully, is the admonition that failure to attend leaves the local citizen little opportunity to complain when the tax bill arrives.

Having gently arrived at this point in the annual reminder, let us get to the specifics of Andover's town meeting which begins Monday at 7:30 p.m., in Memorial Auditorium of East Junior High School.

There is little need to remind voters that they can and do establish their annual tax rate through this democratic process, still retained in its open form in Andover.

The selectmen, finance committee, school committee and administrators have perused and pored over budgets since early January.

If you recall, our tax rate at that time was estimated to go up by about $10.

After several weeks of arduous, voluntary work on the part of many local officials, that tax rate forecast has dropped to the vicinity of $3.

For their effort in saving the taxpayers money in difficult economic times, they are entitled to solid attendance and support.

Despite their efforts, it is the voters who ultimately decide what they will pay for municipal services through their actions at town meeting.

We strongly suggest that the best tribute to Andover officials' work on behalf of the citizens would be a good turnout next Monday and subsequent nights to support their efforts.

There possibly will be a difference of opinion among board members on one particular item -- the open space-recreation item.

Proponents want $930,000 to be bonded over a 20-year period. The selectmen say they will recommend $500,000 over a ten-year period.

We rather support the contention of the selectmen.

Providing the conservationists, planners and recreation devotees with $500,000 will give them a solid financial base from which to work.

We rather doubt the necessity of acquiring all of the proposed lands within the year, and certainly, should the need arise, the funds for additional acquisitions can always be placed before the October or a special town meeting.

The selectmen, in their action, are looking ahead at the next few years and the economic facts of life, which indicate continued tax rate increases.

As worthy as open space may be, a half million to obtain land, coming off the tax rolls, should provide sufficient working capital for the boards to work with.

Shawsheen Can Be A Dream Again

The proposal of the selectmen to study the Shawsheen area, with Sacred Heart properties as the core, seems an excellent idea.

We doubt that any member of the board would place himself in the position of being William M. Wood, the man who conceived the dream village a half century ago.

Wood, in his day, had a vision of a village which would be a model for similar sections throughout the country.

His dream, of course, was shattered by such things as the automobile (two garages to shelter all the cars in the village), an altered economy, reversals in the textile industry, etc.

The present board of selectmen has intentions of working with the residents of Shawsheen Village to produce a pleasant, livable community, agreeable in concept to the majority, while facing the reality that not all can be pleased by the ultimate results.

Core problem in the study is the Sacred Heart school building.

Fears of the Shawsheen neighbors are that the building will be developed for commercial purposes, adding traffic and other problems to the village.

There is additional speculation that waiting a year could result in the building being sold for such purposes.

We are convinced that the selectmen, with no specific use of the building for town purposes forthcoming, would attempt to get the structure back on the tax rolls, with some sophisticated type of commercial or industrial tenant, inoffensive to the neighborhood.

Too, the time factor is in the town's favor, since any alteration of the present school use would require rezoning -- action a town meeting would tend to control.

We view the selectmen's proposal as challenging.

And, we hope they follow through in the ensuing weeks and months with their proposal to redream Shawsheen.

A Sad State Of Affairs

Last week, a $3600 chain link fence was installed on both sides of Andover High School, to keep cars from tearing up the playing fields and grass, and to prevent vandalism at the back of the building. Friday night, the six-foot fences were wrenched from their frames in what Principal Philip Wormwood has called a "very deliberate type of vandalism", and in spite of flood lights in the area. The fence was not really hurting anybody -- it was just there to protect the school, the taxpayers' investment. We can do nothing but abhor such action, and suggest that residents be aware that such things can happen here. Perhaps a watchful eye of nearby residents, indeed all residents, can help put an end to such senseless waste.

In The Beginning . . .

By Frederick P. Fitzgerald

That Indian you see on the Town Seal with his right arm outstretched and something that looks like a coat draped over his left arm is Cutshamachie - there are at least two spellings - Sagamore of a tribe native to this area. The item draped over his arm is not a blanket but a coat, and there could be several reasons why Cutshamachie looks broodingly into the distance. The seal commemorates the sale of land which then comprised the north and south parishes of Andover - land granted to the Andover proprietors by the Massachusetts Bay Company. Cutshamachie may be bemused by the queer ways of the white man - puzzled that he should be given six English pounds and a coat to convey something over which he exercised no ownership rights; or he may be pondering what the tribal council will think about it all when he breaks the news; or he may simply be pleased with himself at having hoodwinked the newcomers. At any rate Cutshamachie appears before the General Court at a later date and legalizes the transaction - at least to the General Court's satisfaction - by publicly acknowledging the conveyance. While the deal does not rank with Alaska, Manhattan, or the Louisiana Purchase the Andover proprietors probably considered it a bargain. Nobody knows what the tribal council thought about it.

In 1642 the General Court - and we recall that the Massachusetts Bay Company Charter provided for a governor, eighteen assistants, and a General Court - granted to five Cambridge men the lands in and around Cochichewick, the Shawsheen and Merrimack rivers. The grant did not differ notably from grants which the court made to other men and groups of the time. The grantees acquired certain rights, but the court also charged them with certain responsibilities. Under the terms of the grant the land became the property of the proprietors - Cutshamachie notwithstanding - and they in turn had the responsibility of dividing the lands, building a village and a "meeting house", and providing an "able and orthodox" minister, all within three years. If the deal looked like a bonanza for the proprietors bear in mind, property values were not then what they are now - nor was Andover, for that matter.

Prior to 1642 a settlement was begun in the Andover area but following the grant the pace quickened. The first transaction by the proprietors was the deeding of land to a Richard Barker on August 13, 1643. Most of the early recorded transactions were land deeds which were made under General Court regulations. The town was incorporated in 1646 and named for Andover in Hants County, England - a place from which many of the early immigrants to the community came. With the quickened pace of settlement came a heightened political consciousness, and we see Andover, as early as 1651, sending a representative - Joshua Osgood - to the General Court in Boston. The beginnings of a social structure appear soon as this Osgood is but one of five Andover householders who merit the title "Mister", all others are known as "Goodman".

The records of town government are skimpy, understandably, but it is probably safe to assume that the community patterned itself after older towns in the bay area, and that its government revolved around the "assembly of freemen", the "freemen" being, as we have seen, property holders, or householders. Clearly there were not many of these because the first Town Meeting was held in 1656, in the home of John Osgood - the same who held the title of "Mister". Also following incorporation a "meeting house" was built on a site near what is now the First Parish Unitarian Church in Old North Andover Square. Two ministers were hired and we may feel safe in saying they were both "able and orthodox".

By 1669 "selectmen" appear, and although the records are skeletal Town Meetings were held regularly and, always, in the early years, in the North Parish meeting house. The number of "selectmen" varies from year to year but finally stabilizes in 1676 at five. A quick look at the early meeting gives us a rough idea of the kind of matters which captured the attention of the Andover "householders", or "goodmen", or "freemen".

The town voted in 1660 to prohibit building "without leave of the town", and to fine anyone 20 shillings per month as long as they should remain on the land.

In 1664 voted that anyone who failed to attend Town Meeting would be fined 12 pence.

In 1672 voted that anyone who permitted a dog in the meeting house would be fined 6 pence for each offense (an early leash law).

In 1673 voted that anyone silenced by the Moderator twice would be fined 12 pence for each succeeding offense.

In 1679 the selectmen ordered that there should be no house entertainment after 9 p.m., nor on Saturday or Sunday; nor should any young people be abroad on Saturday or Sunday night - 5 shillings for each offense.

In 1680 assigned seats (pews) in the "meeting house" and provided a fine of 20 pence for sitting in the wrong seat.

In 1684 all persons in the community having taxable property were ordered to bring such property to a public meeting on the last Thursday in August each year in order that a tax list might be prepared. The penalty for holding anything back was 5 shillings.

In 1695 the selectmen appointed two persons to "inspect the young" and report any evidence of disorderly conduct to the minister.

WEEKLY SPECIAL

Howard Hughes and the Military

by Jack Anderson
with Joe Spear

WASHINGTON — The death of Howard Hughes may have a major impact on America's military preparedness.

The late, eccentric billionaire made most of his money doing contract work for the Pentagon. Hughes' military business, moreover, has been growing in the last several years.

In 1973, Hughes' total contracts with the Pentagon ran to $546.7 million. By last year that figure had jumped dramatically to $1.026 billion. Many of these projects are crucial to the future national defense. Some military experts fear that the billionaire's death and the resulting disorganization in his empire will delay the work.

Other Hughes companies, meanwhile, have also won key government contracts from other agencies. They have worked for the Justice Department, the Interior Department, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, the Federal Aviation Administration and, of course, the Central Intelligence Agency.

While it is impossible to ascertain the exact figure, knowledgeable sources insist that Hughes' secret contract work for the CIA alone has run into the millions in the last eight or 10 years. His Glomar Explorer Project, for example, cost Uncle Sam upwards of $350 million.

It will take months, and probably even years, to sort out the tangled financial web of Hughes' empire. Meanwhile, Hughes corporate officials insist that it is as busy as usual.

But if Uncle Sam is able to assess high inheritance taxes on Hughes' estate, the company's work for the Pentagon and other agencies could be in jeopardy.

Corporate assets would have to be liquidated, which almost surely would mean job layoffs. This, of course, would delay or even halt production of vital defense systems.

In short, the Internal Revenue Service is not the only agency worried about the state of Howard Hughes' estate.

After the Fall: Washington Post reporters Bob Woodward and Carl Bernstein have caused a controversy with their publication of "The Final Days," chronicling Richard Nixon's last days in the White House.

But we have been keeping up with Nixon since he left 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue.

It was a defeated, distraught Richard Nixon who went into seclusion at San Clemente. One source with access to him described him as "totally weary, terribly depressed and completely despondent."

Another source was struck by Nixon's "stark loneliness." The former president was "absolutely alone within himself," the source said. These were his worst days. His nerves were frayed; his conversation sometimes wandered, and he had to take Seconal to sleep.

Nixon's psyche was so "delicate," according to our sources, that loyal aides would take visitors aside and caution them not to mention Watergate. Nixon even developed a strange inability to repeat the name of the special Watergate prosecutor, Leon Jaworski.

Yet all our sources agree that Nixon always had complete control of his faculties. Slowly, he began to come out of his shell. It helped him to talk things out with his wife, Pat. Sources who overheard some of their conversation tell me Nixon began to pour out his feelings to his wife.

When he came close to death in the hospital, she was constantly at his side. But once she was away for two hours, Nixon plaintively asked for her. Let me quote one source directly on this. "If it hadn't been for Pat," this source said, "Dick would not have survived. Her presence pulled him through."

The former president is now engrossed in his memoirs. Like Woodward and Bernstein, he has tried to reconstruct his final days. He has questioned former aides to help him recall the agonizing details.

Nixon has indicated, of course, that his account will be quite different than the Woodward-Bernstein version. But he hasn't yet committed it to writing, because he hasn't reached this point in his manuscript.

Incidentally, his researchers furnish him with detailed memos, but he is writing his own book ... in longhand on legal-size yellow pads. Sources who have had access to the unfinished manuscript say it is painfully frank in some places. He blames himself for mishandling Watergate. But most of all, he blames his former chief of staff, H. R. Haldeman.

Today, Richard Nixon's leg pains him when he is on his feet more than an hour. He takes anticoagulants three times a day. And he still requires Seconal to sleep at nights.

But he talks confidently of the future. He believes history will treat him kindly because of his efforts as a peacemaker.

Pistol Packers: On April Fool's Day, a 42-year-old woman tried to walk into the House of Representatives visitors' gallery with a loaded pistol.

It was no prank. She was stopped by the police, who took a .22 caliber automatic from her.

There is no evidence that she planned to shoot up the House of Representatives, as Puerto Rican terrorists did in 1954. She voluntarily surrendered the pistol from her purse. She explained to the police that she was a widow and that a friend had given her the automatic for protection.

But unfortunately for her, the law bans private firearms on the Capitol grounds. So the woman was booked for carrying a concealed deadly weapon.

The new X-ray devices in congressional offices have turned up eight guns. Capitol Police Chief James Powell says all eight were carried by "misguided people," not potential assassins.

Planning Tour Route

Starting at the front door of the North Andover home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Reichter, as house tour-goers will May 1 are, from left, Mrs. Michael Gravallesse, Mrs. Lawrence Farrington, Mrs. Reichter and Mrs. Martin Neistadt. Tour will benefit the New England Home for Little Wanderers.

Tour To Benefit Little Wanderers

"Wandering Through The Andovers Again", a tour of traditional and contemporary homes in Andover and North Andover, will be held on May 1 from 10 to 4.

Sponsored by the Greater Lawrence Chapter of the Friends of the New England Home for Little Wanderers, the tour will be held rain or shine.

Arrows will mark the way to the six houses that will be open to the public.

One to be shown in Andover will be the unique contemporary of Mr. and Mrs. Igor Paul. Nestled in a wooded setting, this multi-level house is divided into separate living areas. Particularly original is the children's wing, with its own arts and crafts center and carpeted cylinders with porthole windows which serve as hideaways. The light from many skylights and geometrically shaped windows allows hanging plants to grow abundantly as if in a greenhouse.

The recently purchased Victorian of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Blomgren was formerly the Abbot Academy "Music House", built in 1867 and believed to have been a part of the Underground Railroad.

As the house did not have a kitchen, structural changes had to be made to provide for a kitchen-family room with expansive glass walls. The National Institute of Kitchen Design has just awarded the room an honorable mention in their Kitchen of the Year judging.

Dr. and Mrs. Robert P. Wilson have created an unusual three-level apartment from part of their Victorian, without sacrificing any of its prime features. Of particular interest in the main house are two Palladian-like windows and parquet floors with different border designs in each room.

Built around a keyhole-shaped, indoor swimming pool is the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McDonald. The master bedroom with adjoining chandelied marble bath, six additional bathrooms, a 75-mile view and guest suite off the pool area are some of the highlights. Examples of Mrs. McDonald's decoupage and stenciling hobbies are shown throughout.

be served from 10 till noon, followed by punch and pastries until 4 o'clock, around the McDonalds' pool.

In North Andover, one stop is the Georgian colonial of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Reichter, situated on landscaped grounds with a cabana and pool. The entrance hall of the three-story home features arched doors to the living room and a staircase with vari-turned balusters. Each of the second floor bedrooms has its own fireplace. Also upstairs is a billiard room built by the original owners in 1938.

Gayton House, the Federal residence of Dr. and Mrs. Horatio Rogers, is surrounded by acres of lawns, trees and pastures, typical of North Andover's countryside. Various members of the Stevens family occupied this house for many years. Of special interest are the Indian shutters, carved parlor moulding and panelling, and the Garden House.

Members and friends will serve as hostesses and appropriate flower arrangements will be provided by women in the area to complement each of the homes.

Advance tickets are available from any committee member, at Andover Liquors, Shawshen Plaza, and Thompson's, Main Street, Andover; and at Birch Drugs, North Andover Mall. Tickets are also available by mail from Mrs. Louis Bourbeau, 35 Argilla Road, Andover.

On tour day, they may be purchased at each home, and the information booth at Andover Center will be open for directions. Children under 12 will not be admitted to the event.

Show House To Open Sunday

The Junior League of Boston's sixth annual Show House will be held beginning next week at Winter Valley, the Milton estate of the Whitney's. Winter Valley will be transformed by 24 Boston area decorators and will be open to the public from April 25 through May 16, Monday to Saturday from 10 to 4, Sunday, 1 to 5, and Tuesday and Thursday evenings, 6:30 to 9.

Winter Valley was commissioned in 1921 by Geoffrey Gordon Whitney and his wife Alice Cornelia Whitney. The architect of record was George Shepard, whose signature can be seen in the front hall in the form of a perfect sweeping staircase.

Alice Whitney, the force behind it. She was educated in England, a botanist, a linguist and a world traveller -- hence the celebrated Winter Valley gardens. The marble mantelpieces throughout the house were chosen personally by Alice Whitney and brought by her from Italy. It was really she, with the help of George Shepard, who achieved the English manor house feeling, the marriage between the interior of Winter Valley and the gardens that were her lifes work.

When Geoffrey Whitney died Alice built a 16-room replica of the larger house to the left of the original, leaving her eldest son, William Thaw Whitney, to raise his children in her perfect yellow house.

Proceeds from Show House are added to the League's Community Program Trust Fund, which supports Junior League projects in the greater Boston area.

On the North Shore, two such projects are Volunteers in Education, which aids schools with learning disabled children, and Art Goes to School, a slide and art object presentation available to schools. Mrs. Peter A. Schaedel, of Manchester, Mrs. Michael E. Rowan, of Newburyport, and Mrs. John C. Philip, of Andover are busy is Sunday school out-of-date?

It's never out-of-date to understand God, and man, and the true nature of the universe.

This understanding is what young people up to the age of 20 gain in our Sunday School.

They're taught a warm and practical Christianity, and how to apply it to everyday problems.

And as they study the Bible, together with Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, they're preparing to help solve the world's problems in the most forward-looking, fresh, and effective way.

OBITUARIES

JOSEPH A. MULVEY

Joseph A. Mulvey, 82, 1 Locke St., a retired laundry and dry cleaning company owner, died suddenly last Thursday at Lawrence General Hospital.

Born in Lynn June 9, 1893, he had lived most of his life in the Greater Lawrence area where he also was a milliner, an athletic equipment manager, political campaign manager and night school teacher.

He attended Holy Cross College and was a graduate of Boston college in 1917.

A veteran of World War I, he had served in the U.S. Army as a radioman. Following his active duty, Mr. Mulvey secured a government contract to recondition military coats and uniforms, installing the most modern dry cleaning equipment in the country to do the job.

The firm served Army bases from Boston to Philadelphia.

By that time, the Mulvey Laundry family business turned into the Arrow Cleaning and Dyeing System which operated for many years in various sections of the Lawrence area. He retired from active business in 1969. He was a charter member and past president of the Lawrence Rotary Club.

Mulvey's other profitable business stemmed from his continuing interest in sports. The Arrow Systems sports manufacturers supplied all local schools and eventually schools and colleges in the entire eastern half of the country with football helmets, shoulder pads, thigh pads, pole vault and high jump landing systems and several other athletic items.

Mr. Mulvey secured the first patent rights on concussion-proof helmets and pneumatic or inflatable shoulder and hip pads.

His survivors include his wife, Leona (Buckley) Mulvey whom he married in 1926; two daughters, Jean, wife of John C. Friedmann of Houston, Tex., and Susan, wife of William B. Swarts, III, of Riverside, Conn.; a son, Donald J. Mulvey of Andover; seven grandchildren; two nieces and a nephew.

However, all was not trivia; boundaries were settled; tradesmen and mechanics were encouraged to settle in the area, and we find the Town Meeting authorizing a fulling mill, a saw mill, a corn mill, and a tannery. In 1671 the Andover - Woburn boundary is settled, but it is not until 1718 that there is an agreement on the Andover - Salem boundary. It was at this meeting that a bounty of 20 shillings for every wolf caught was offered. After 1718 the proprietors began to meet apart from the town and it is at this time that records begin to appear in an orderly form; but these records are mostly of the sale of land. However, an act of the General Court in 1801 directed the Andover proprietors to turn over the money in the treasury and all future revenues to the North and South parishes, one half to each, for the purposes of general education.

From 1765 onwards the Town Meeting was involved in voting on substantive matters related to the approaching war. In 1765 the meeting instructed Samuel Philips, Esq. - Andover representative to the General Court - to "strive for the repeal of the Stamp Act", and to "prevent all unconstitutional draughts on the public treasury", and it further directed that "we also desire you to use your utmost endeavors so that all extraordinary grants and expensive measures may upon all occasions, as much as possible, be avoided."

Philips was also told to press the General Court for indemnification for the sufferers of the Boston riots. On February 2 and December 26, 1774 the meeting passed important resolutions restricting in considerable detail trading in tea by Andover citizens on pain of "the town's displeasure". It also resolved "to firmly adhere to the association of the grand American Continental Congress and to resolve of the Provincial Congress of the 5th of December - - (and) the inhabitants of the town of the age of 21 years and upwards subscribe to the following agreement - - to observe and keep all and every article of association under penalty of being listed in the Essex Gazette as an 'enemy of the country'"; and on June 12, 1776, the meeting voted unanimously to "support any declaration of independence by the honorable Congress". On October 3, 1776 it voted to support the framing of a state constitution, and on November of the following year it voted to support the families of those serving in the Continental Army. But its deeds went beyond words when it also voted to supply each soldier with one pair of shirts, two pairs of stockings, one pair of shoes, and one blanket.

Up to this time all town assemblies had been held in the North Parish "meeting house", but in 1781 arrangements were made to hold the annual meetings alternately in North and South parish meeting houses. The record adds that "during the war a spirit of unity and harmony prevailed respecting decisions to raise volunteers, supply them, and care for their families; and that the 'agents' (selectmen?) for this had the people's confidence and made life tolerable."

The first recorded Town Meeting vote came on January 7, 1787 on a question of accepting a federal constitution - YES 115, NO 124 - not really too far from a 1976 quorum. The vote split the town into Federalist and anti-Federalist factions. In 1794 a plan of the town was adopted, and on May 2, 1798 the town sent Joshua Holt to the U.S. House of Representatives. On May 14, 1798 the town sent a letter to the then President, John Adams, thanking him for his efforts to reach an agreement with the French Republic, and commending his administration on its wisdom, vigilance, integrity, and persevering solicitude - a letter to which Adams gracefully replied on May 25, 1798.

Much is made from time to time of the wisdom inherent in "free assemblies, and of the wise decisions which come from a clash of viewpoints, and from sometimes intemperate debate. There is, doubtless, much virtue in regularly exposing the workings of government to the merciless and frequently hostile scrutiny of interested and disinterested, but informed citizens. It would be simple minded to assume that all town meeting decisions are wise; but these early Town Meeting decisions, particularly those bearing on the war, seem to have stood the test. On the other hand they landed on the winning side - and that, looking through the large end of the spy-glass of history, is an attractive place to land.

Historical Microfiche Is Given To Schools

A microfiche copy of Province in Rebellion, a documentary history of the transition in Massachusetts government from colony to commonwealth during the critical years of 1774-1775, has been received by the Andover Public School Media Services.

This extraordinary publication was sponsored by the Commission under a grant to the Charles Warren Center at Harvard University. The editorial project, a four-year undertaking, includes the journals of the three provincial congresses, the reports of the committees on safety and supply, the records of the superior court of judicature and the surviving records of the inferior court, and the papers of the governor, council, customs officers and the admiralty court. Also included is a biographical dictionary of all members of the provincial congresses during these years.

Accompanying them is a book-length brochure containing a detailed listing of the documents and an index to all persons, places, events, and topics mentioned in the texts, as well as a comprehensive interpretation of the history recorded in the documents, written by the editor, L. Kinvin Wroth.

L. Kinvin Wroth is professor of law at the University of Maine School of Law and edited the "Legal Papers of John Adams," a three-volume work published by the Massachusetts Historical Society.

"Province in Rebellion" is unique in the literature of the American Revolution and will be a source of information for scholars for many years to come.

Annetta R. Freedman, program advisor of media services, has announced this has been placed in the East Junior High Media Center and can be used by interested residents of the town.

Parking Ban May Quiet Park Area

Responding to complaints from residents of the Central Park area, the Andover Board of Selectmen Tuesday night imposed a nighttime parking ban on Whittier Street, which runs in front of East Junior High.

The action prohibits parking on Whittier between Bartlet and Chestnut Streets, from 11 p.m. to 7 a.m.

The move was considered as one additional tool for police who have been trying to "keep the peace" in the area, and the matter was also referred to the Traffic Committee for further study.

Town Meeting

Hill - Bald Hill, Sacred Heart property, Skug River Wetlands and certain Shawsheen River Frontage, for conservation and recreation purposes.

Sponsored by the Conservation Commission, Planning Board and Recreation - Community Schools, the article has received Finance Committee approval in the amount of $930,000.

The Selectmen, however, are supporting only $515,000 for open space purchase, and are opposing consideration of Sacred Heart properties be postponed.

Articles 48 and 49, entered by the Friends of the Shawsheen Village Neighborhood Association, seek acquisition of the old Sacred Heart School and/or land and gymnasium. The dustrial zoning changes in West Andover.

Town Meeting has been affectionately called "the best show in town", and pre-session entertainment this year will be movies of Bicentennial celebrations in Andover schools.

The Bicentennial Quilt, handmade by a group of Andover women and depicting various points of historical interest, will be on display in the basement, where the American Field Service chapter will once again be serving refreshments.

The Bicentennial medallion, which also decorates the cover of the Finance Committee Report, will be on sale, along with tickets for the Bicentennial Committee's house Tours in May and Fourth of July events.

Street Not Approved

A request that Crescent Drive be laid out as a "public way" has been turned down by Selectmen.

Approval is a formality necessary before a future Town Meeting accepts a street as a "town" street.

Meetings, More Meetings

The Board of Selectmen will hold a Pre-Town

Meeting Conference in the Town Hall Conference Room Saturday, beginning at 9 a.m., to acquaint committee chairmen with the ins and outs of Town Meeting.

Selectman Susan T. Poore will attend the Northeast Solid Waste committee in Georgetown on May 6.
